SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 1.

drunken population in a more favourable posi-tion—that it is no longer an offence to get drunk, unless there be some inferences drawn drunk, unless there be some inferences drawn dishonourable to the general character of the tippler. Our present legislators were not unlikely to rectify the severity of former legislation. The fact is, our treatment of drunkards is a great social anomaly. The pleasures of intoxication are the subject of a thousand songs. Men in the commission of the peace and representatives of the peaple, exhibit themselves in all the varieties of intemperance—noisy or melancholy; savage or maudling. We have seen them "raging drunk"—"crying drunk"—"dead drunk." It really requires some impudence to face a poor half-starved drunkard who cannot bear anything but thin potations, and punish him with severity for committing the very offence, under extenuating circumstances, punish him with severity for committing the very offence, under extenuating circumstances, which was so gloriously performed by the men who made the law or who administer it.

Considering how things are, perhaps the most useful service a constable could perform would be to conduct the stumbling drunkard to his own home. So long as society deals with intemperance upon the present system there seems a good deal of phariseeism in the selection of examples. To take a pound from a drunkard is probably to condemn his unfortunate family to a week's stardemn his unfortunate family to a week's star-vation; or, to impose imprisonment as the alternative, is to put the country to a very serious, and we fear useless, expense. The prevalence of drunkenness is indeed the master evil of colonial life. We should be afraid of no foreign enemy or domestic tyrant, no failure of trade or agriculture; nothing would awaken anxiety for the future in the shape of burdens or taxation, or even debt, were it not for the fearful waste of public strength in the cost and conseawaken anxiety for the future in the shape of burdens or taxation, or even debt, were it not for the fearful waste of public strength in the cost and consequences of intemperance. There are large numbers of persons whe never get drunk in the police sense of the word, but who are tippling from morning till night. It is impossible to approach them without being sensible to the large expiration of ardent spirit. It is not very often that people reach the point of combustion—when they go off in blue flame; but there are thousands whose habitual state is within a stage or two of that final explosion. Until sounder views are diffused among us, and people really learn the physical and moral consequences of tippling habits, we shall gain very little by punishing half a dozen drunkards in a morning.

The relation of the trade in customable drinks to the public at large, and the right of controlling and regulating it, has never been appreciated by our legislators. We have never joined in the hue and cry against publicans conjoined in the hue and cry against publicans considered as a body, nor do we fancy that legal restriction will moralise mankind; but our practice seems to be inconsistent with any principle. No one can pretend that Sydney requires a public-house at every corner. No one can doubt that this multiplication tends to lower the trade and thus to demoralise it. There is a point where competition becomes desperate, and where auxiliaries are sought to stimulate drunkenness aries are sought to stimulate drunkenness which no reputable licensed victualler would think of. If the public-house is to stand on think of. think of. If the public-house is to stand on the same footing as any other business, let it be so. Any man then would open his house without requiring the permission of the magistrates, and every other shop might vend ardent spirits. Our readers, probably, are not prepared for this absolute freedom, and thus the actual regulation is left with magistrates who convert the liganse interest.

and thus the actual regulation is left with magistrates who convert the license into a matter of patronage, and multiply the houses far beyond any possible public necessity.

It would be a great benefit to society if the inhabitants of a lecality had some voice in limiting, and thus regulating, public-houses. An extensive movement is now supported in England, by many eminent men, to give to a corporation, or other municipal body, a power to vcto all new applications. It seems only reasonable that, so long as the principle of regulation is retained by law, it should be exercised by the people in whose behalf it exists. A low public-house opened in any neighbour-hood cellects about it its little knot of drunkards, and is a moral pest to all around it. Children hood cellects about it its little knot of drunkards, and is a moral post to all around it. Children must be kept indoors. Bounds of riot disturb the peaceable inhabitants. Every now and then some obstreperous drunkard rages through the streets, and the enticement of extreme facility draws the labourer from his home, and causes the waste of half his earnings. The advocates of the "Permissive Law" say home, and causes the waste of half his earnings. The advocates of the "Permissive Law" say it would be better for the respectable publican, and far safer for society, were the inhabitants made judges of the necessity for a public house, and thus permitted to defend their property from deterioration, and their families from approvance.

The fearful consequences which hourly result The fearful consequences which hourly result from intemperance must in the long run arouse society and lead to reform. The continual endurance of evil so deeply felt is astonishing in itself. We presume it partly arises from the inability of any one to suggest an effective remedy. In whatever direction we turn there are obtacles whatever direction we turn, there are obstacles to reform too formidable to encounter. There the vested interest, which is enormous; there is the revenue interest, pre-eminent over all other fiscal resources; there is the real secial other fiscal resources; there is the real social necessity for houses of public entertainment, which cannot be exactly defined; there are the habits of the people; and then there is the character and origin of the Legislature. This combination forms an unassailable barrier to all reform beyond the most inconsiderable limits; and perhaps all that it is possible to do until society shall rouse itself with irresistible determination is to keep before the public mind the statistics and the consequences of intemperance.

lf any one is sceptical we should advise him to push his inquiries. Let him go to the police office and notice the character of the wretched beings who are dealt with under summary acts. Let him go to the Supreme Court and inquire the history of crimes and their moving cause. Let him go to the Infirmary and trace the origin of diseases as they are developed there. Let him go to the Orphan School and inquire under what circumstance the children have been bereft of their natural pretectors. Let him go the Benevolent As lum and inquire the him go the Benevolent As lum and inquire the causes of that misery which collects about the door of the committee-room. Wherever he turns his inquiry he will receive the same answer. Heaven has dealt bountifully with this country in the gift of everything that man requires. The climate creates no new diseases. There is no limit to the field of individual and domestic proposition but to the country and the constitution of the control of the country in the control of the country and the control of the country and the country in the control of the country and the country in the control of the country and the country in the country and the country in the country and the country in the countr domestic properity, but to thousands and tens of thousands all is made vain by habitual intemperance. More have been slain by this curse in New South Wales than fell at the battle of Waterloo, but there is no power to resist the destroyer. resist the destroyer.

BRISBANE.

Friday afternoon.

The immigrants have all arrived in good health, and are being brought to town. The Casar Godeffroy spoke the American ship Richardson, from London to Melbourne, off the Cape of Good Hope, the captain of which reported that the barque Eleanor, from London to Batavia, has been burnt at sea. Crew and passengers saved by the American vessel, which was to land them at the Cape. Thirteen of the crew of the Jessie Munn refused to work the ship into harbour, and the captain had to rely on the passengers. The Water Police Magistrate and several constables have gone down to the bey to-day, and will bring the refractory seamen to town.

Church of England Ordination service was held in St. Andrew's Temporary Cathedral, on Saturday, 26th January, when Mr. Henry H. Britten, student of Moore College, was admissed to the Desconate. The Descon of Sprincy, the Reverend Canon Allwood, and the camining chaplains took part in the service; the sermen, which was a most appropriate one for the occasion, was preached by the Reverend R. L. King, of Parramatta, who after explaining what were the necessary qualifications duties, and responsibilities of the Christian minister, ended with a practical application to ministers and people generally, but particularly to the candidate about to be admitted into Holy Orders.

The Bishof of Synkey.—It is stated that the Bishop of Sydney will proceed to England by the March mail, on eighteen monthel leave of absence. His lordship has cited the clergy of his diocess to a visitation, to be held in St. Andrew's Church on the 10th February.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman and other members of the board for their valuable services, was then carried unanimously.

Weolloomooloo Pressverena. Church.—The annual meeting of the Palmer-struct Presbyterian Church (Rev. J. M. Gibbon's), was held on Tuesday evening last, for the purpose of receiving the usual annual report and statement of accounts from the Denom's Court. The attendance was not so numerous as was desired, but an excellent spirit prevailed throughout the meeting. After devotional exercises the report was read by one of the descens. It was stated that the safars of the church and school were in a generally satisfactory and improving condition. Notwithstanding the extrume nigratory habits of the people the church had maintained its numbers and strength, and even increased in sefficiency. The minister stated that the members' roll had received throughout the year several additions, and that in his pastoral intercourse with the families of the church, he had found, what was even more gratifying to him than the mers increase of numbers, uninterrupted harmony and goodwill. From the treasurer's account it was shown, that from all the sources of revenue the funds had been so well provided during the year, that the deacount was able, not only to pay the current expanses of the church, but to angunent the minister's stiped by £50, and to pay off upwards of £100 of the debt remaining on the substantial and comfortable edifice in which they worshipped was now reduced to about £550. With a view to liquidate this debt, the chairman stated, some of the ladies of the congregation had very spiritedly determined to underfine a bazaar. The unanimously expressed feeling was, that the proposed bazaar which no rafiling or lotterying will be allowed, but every article sold at a reasonable price. "The chairman and he was sure that the public, who had almost been sixtened with bazaars at which gambling practices were resorted to, would support the proposed alse of ladies' work, for the object in view. It was resolved to hold the proposed who had acquited thoraselves best throughout the year. Other business was then proceeded with. The re

True, there are inderested parties who study only their own individual interest—not the public weal—who are using all their influence to have it placed epocetic Narrabry, where that creat would have to be crossed which is in flood than as great an obstruction as the Namoi itself, but by placing it at Millner's ridges such an obstruction would be estirely avoided. # GRAND CRICKET MATCH.

ALL-ENGLAND ELEVEN V. TWENTY-TWO OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

TRIED DAY.

THE excitement consequent upon the great match appears to the increasing as the game proceeds,—each day's attendance, to all appearance, exceeding the previous one. Brilliant weather again favoured the players and the public, and the like good order of which we have before spoken again characterised the proceedings. In the opinion of many the ground was better attended yesterday than even upon the first day, the beautiful slopes on the castern sides of the Domain being literally covered with people, ladies and children being largely in the majority. Without endorsing this estimate, we may safely say that the attendance was quite up to that of Thursday, but it must be regretted, that a tolerably large proportion was comprised of those who, taking aivantage of the liberal spirit of Messra. Spiers and Pond in allowing a few indigent persons and youngsters to unter without paying, required the same privilege, although apparently well able to afford the triffe that was asked for as admission fee. Steps will no doubt be taken to-day to limit these admissions, if only in justice to those who pay and who do not begrudge the small cost of such a treat.

It will be seen from the detailed report of the play that the game yesterday underwent a great variation, and that at present the chances of our colonial players are exceedingly good. To have disposed of their formidable rivals on a score of sixty-six must have given them great heart, and, certainly, they deserved this piace of success for the admirable fielding which they displayed throughout the tinings. Should they only be so fortunate as to obtain the coveted 115 the triumph will be great, not as a victory over the All-England, but because they will have the honour of being the first team in the colonies that have been at all able to cope with them.

We proceed now with our usual detailed report of the play. THE excitement consequent upon the great m

At half-past eleven o'clock the All-England players again took their places in the field, and Curran with Newcombe appeared at the wickets. Griffith bowled from the northern, Sewell from the southern end. Griffith's first Newcombe played to mid on, and the third of Sewell's next he cut, scoring two singles. The second of Griffith's next he cut, scoring two singles. The second of Griffith's next he cut, scoring two singles. The second of Griffith's next he cut, scoring two singles. The second of Griffith's following ever he tipped lightly to leg, thus making two more singles. Ni siden from Griffith to Newcombe. Curran hit the second of Sewell's third. Govern cut to mid on for a double, the fourth fell andhog his simmps, he retired for two, the scoring being 59 for eleven wickets. O. Lewis took his place. The third of Griffith's fourth Newcombe hit to long off for a double, and the telegraph was now altered to 100. Of the last ball of the over Newcombe made a hit to leg for three. Maiden from Sewell to Newcombe. The fourth of Griffith's fifth Lewis tipped, and the ball flying off the wicket-keeper's hand was admirably taken by Mortleck at backstop. Lewis did not score, and gave the twalfth wicket for 104. Ward was next in. Newcombe hit forward for a double. The first of Sewell's fifth, and the second of Griffith's next Ward slipped, and owing to an overthrow from Mudie a double was scored. Maiden from Sewell to Newcombe, and Ward received another from Griffith. The first of Sewell's seventh took Newcombe's off stump. He had carned eleven. Thirteen wickets for 108. The leventh Lewis poon dead of Griffith's next and owing to the carelesaness with which B. Stephenson fielded it a single was run. Caffyn

Gifbert bowied Mortlock a maiden Stepasmson cat rather easily the first of Moore's next, and was caught by Curtis at point, having made eight, and boing the fourth out for 16. Caffyn was the next balaman. Off this first of Moore's ninth, Mortlock made one by a light lep hit. The first of Gifbert's next, Caffyn put to mid-on for a single. The second Mortlock hit to long on, attempted as a chance by O. Lewis, but having proved too strong for him it passed to the northern feace, and four were scored. The telegraph now exhibited 20. Mortlock got the fourth of Gifbert folong on, and the second of Moore's next to long off for singles. The third of Gifbert's eleventh he hit to the off, and the fielding of Ward allowed a single. The second of Moore's eleventh he hit to long off, and was very well caught by Brown. Mortlock made ten, and was the fifth out for 24. He was successed by Iddison, who played the last of the over to mid-off for a single, Clarks having failed in an attempt to eatch. The third of Gifbert's next Caffyn hit to long-off, but it was well acreated by O. Lewis and only a single run. His fourth Iddison got sway to the same part of the field, but it was stopped, though not cleanly, by Ward, and score was prevented. The first of Moore's next Caffyn cut for a single; the scoond Iddison hit prettily to log, but it was fielded well by J. Moore's next Caffyn cut for a single; the scoond Iddison hit prettily to log, but it was fielded well by J. Moore's next Caffyn cut for a single; the scoond iddison hit prottily to log, but it was fielded well by J. Moore, and nothing scored. The third Iddison sent to long off for a single; the sourth Caffyn played to mid off, and was well caught by Gregory, the score still remaining at twenty-eight for seven wicksts. Medie baryot the fourth over the same ground for santher. The last of Gilbert's fourthout the first of Gilbert's next to mid on, and owing to loose itselfined by Newcombe one was run; Iddison hit to long of Got a single, the fourth Iddison hit to long on giving Bowlino.

At half-past five o'clock the Rieven again appeared in the field, Clark and Brown at the wickets to open the second innings of N. S. W. Twenty-Two. Griffith took the bowling at the northern, Sewell at the southern end. The third from Griffith was a wide, otherwise the over was a maiden. The first from Sewell, Brown played to leg for a single, the second gave a leg bye for one. The last ball of Griffith's next, took Clark's leg stump; he retired for nil. First wicket for 3. O. Lowis was next in. The first of Sewell's second was slipped by Brown, the third by Lewis, for single each. Griffith bowled Lewis a maiden. The third of Sewell's next, Brown slipped for two. L wis lost his wheek in the next over, being bowled by Griffith's first. He retired for a single, and was the second out for 7. Clever filled the vacancy. The first of Sewell's fourth, Brown poked up to the short of, and was neatly caught by Iddison at point. Brown's figure was four. Three wickets still for 7. T. Lowis joined Cleves, and slipped Sewell's second for a single.

A fair amount of business has been transacted in the share market notwithstanding the holidays caused by the Great Cricket Match. The half-yearly meetings of the Companies that have been held have given satisfaction, and the prices of these securities have advanced. Bank shares are firm. Bank of New South Wales shares have been inquired for, and have advanced 2s. 6d. per share. Australian Joint Stock Bank shares have also improved 2s. 6d. per share. Australian Steam Navigation shares are much sought after, but holders are not disposed to sell since the meeting, when it was proposed to increase the capital, except at a considerable advance on last quotations. Prices are therefore for the present nominal. The following are the prices at which sales have been made during the week:—Commercial Bank, £45 10s. per share x div.; Bank of New South Wales, £35 10s. per share. THE QUALITY OF THE STOCK, as already mentioned, is very superior, the original stock having been elected with the greatest care, since when the breeding has been particularly regarded.

THE GRAZING CAPABLITIES are adequate for an immense increase, thus in every respect is this property such as should ensure for it a proper consideration.

Intending purshasers are invited to inspect the property, and to satisfy themselves of its sterling qualities.

NEW OXFORD RAMS. Terms at sale.

ORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitterset, at 11 o'clock, on TUESDAY, February 4th, 4 NEW OXFORD RAMS, bred from the ficeks of William Gillett, Esq., Brins Norton, Oxfordshire.

These sheep are fast supersecting other breeds through the midland counties of England, on account of their strong constitution, early maturity, and superfor quality of matter. They impart these properties to other breeds, and are, therefore, much used for crossing. They are guide, easily fed, and clip from seven to cipth pounds of wool of good quality, and at fifteen menths old they attain frequently the weight of from 180 to 200 libs.

*** The rams are now on view.

BERICHARDSON and WRENCH, in bringing this magnificent Pastoral Property into the market for postitive sale, feel there is no necessity to add any lengthy comment to the above simple description of the litun and Stock. The attention which is becknown by capitalists on all preperties on the fav-famed Darling Downs, is sufficient evidence that a station like Gleneig, situated in the heart of the Downs, (the most noted grazing country in the colonies) and possessing its immense advantages, will not be overlooked in the present market, where so few opportunities occur for acquiring a station in these renowned regions. The advantages which Gleneig possesses are so numerous, and so well known, that the Auctioneers would only direct attantien to the important fact that the run, with its present number of sheep and cattle, is barely half stocked, and that no other chance is likely to arise where buyers may have the chance of obtaining a Downs Run, with so small a quantity of sheepin proportion to its capabilities, as now offered by the sale of Gleneig.

Intending purchasers are invited to inspect the property prior to the day of sale, as the breed of the sheep, the quantity and supplies and the concrous extent of rich grazing country, are seldom combined in any property prought forward for positive sale by public competitions.

ICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from Mesers, Fattorini and Co to sell by public suction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on TURSDAY, the 25th February, at 11 o'clock, The above compact pastoral property.

YALEBONE and TRINIDAD blocks adjoin the well-known Talevera Rums belonging to Mr. W. B. Tooth, and comprise a very large area (about firty square miles) of richly grassed country, extending up and having a frontage of about ten miles to the splendid waters of YALEBONE CREEK, affording an abundant and never-failing supply. The country consists of sound open gravelly ridges, and small plains richly grassed, abounding with SANDAL trees, MYALL and SALT BUSH, carrots and other fattoning herbages. It is equally scaped for SHEEP as for cattle, and has large carrying capabilities for either description of stock, being estimated for 10,000 SHEEP, or a proportionate number of cattle.

The IMPROVEMENTS comprise a large alab hut.

for 10,000 SHEEP, or a proportionate number of cattle.

The IMPROVEMENTS comprise a large alab hut, a capital stockyard, and milking and killing yards complete, with a securely enclosed herding paddock.

With the above will be sold

1000 HEAD OF CATTLE, more or less, a quiet mixed herd, principally bred by J. P. Wilkie, Esq., of Dundine, and now well broken into the run.

"." Stores, working stock, &c., to be taken by valuation in the usual way.

The above property offers a favourable opportunity for small capitalists, as it is now in excellent working order, and possesse ample room for double the number of horned stock on it, or at least 10,000 sheep. As it will be positively sold on the date above mentione; intending purchasers are invited to inspect it, and, on application to Mr. HENKY ELLIS, of Deepwater, the adjoining station, will receive every requisite information for their guidance.

forming together a very extensive area, of very open manualing country, interspersed with timpy tribuered gently rising ridges, and abounding with a variety of ich grasses and salt herbs. The whole country is abundantly watered by the GOGANGO and several branch creeks, and also possesses some very fine lagoons, affording an unlimited supply. The carrying capabilities are estimated by Government at 10,000 SHEEP, but according to competent judges the numbers are placed at much higher figures.

The INFROVEMENTS comprise a good shingled overseer's hut, with store attached; three station huts, all very substantially built; large dog proof and bough yards at each station, with drafting yards, hurdles, &c.

With the above extunsive property will be sold the following theop, viz.—

Stores, teams, working stock, etc., to be taken at a valuation by the usual way.

The attention of parties looking for an investment in a first-rate property SCARGELY ONE-THIRD STOCKED, is particularly directed to the GOGANGO STATION as offering an opportunity for a profitable operation seldom to be met with. It possesses an extensive area of magnificent graving country, and has but a small number of first-class sheep (about two-thirds of which are breeders) depasturing on it, while it contains nearly all necessary improvements for carrying on a very large sheep form. Its situation, barely thirty-five miles from water-carriage at ROCKHAMPTON, is a great item in its favour, as the land-carriage is thereby reduced to an insignificant charge—all of which advantages cannot fall to draw the attention of capitalists to its sale on the 25th instant, prior to which intending purchasers are invited to inspect.
